Colorado Sports Field Management Association Awards Program

The Colorado Sports Field Management Association's Board of Directors is accepting nominations for the Rocky Mountain Region Sports Field of the Year award. With this award we hope to recognize the outstanding achievement, dedication, hard work and contributions to the sports field industry of deserving sports field professionals in the Rocky Mountain region. The goal of the program is to provide scholarship and educational opportunities for area field managers interested in expanding their knowledge of turfgrass management and to promote excellence in sports field management in the area.

Eligibility:

To be nominated for Sports Field of the Year Award, you must be a current member of the CSFMA in good standing and must be professionally engaged in a position in the sports turf industry, a new field must be older than 2 years and all materials must be submitted to be considered.

Field of the Year:

A maximum of three (3) Rocky Mountain Sports Field of the Year designations will be awarded to the manager with an outstanding field or facility. This year we will attempt to categorize the awards into field type or by available budget and resources. The contest is to see who can do the most with what they have to work with. To nominate your field or facility, fill out and follow the directions on the attached entry form and mail to CSFMA headquarters by the final Friday of October. Each Sports Field of the Year recipient will receive (I) CSFMA Membership (effective Jan.1 of the following year), (I) Sports Field Management Association (SFMA) Conference registration and (I) Rocky Mountain Region Turfgrass Association (RMRTA) Conference registration (travel and accommodations not included).
